

ABSTRACT

A method is provided to realize a three-dimensional mounting structure of different types of packages. By bonding protruding electrodes and to lands which are formed on a first carrier substrate, second and third carrier substrates are mounted on the first carrier substrate so that ends of the second and third carrier substrates are arranged above a semiconductor chip.